

PASTEURIZABLE WIDE-MOUTH CONTAINER

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A wide-mouth blow-molded plastic container capable of accommodating, without undesirable distortion, super-baric pressures when filled with volatile food products and pasteurized, and sub-baric pressures after cooling to ambient
5 temperatures. A method of packaging a food product in the container is also disclosed.